from NATALIE

Dear Members,

Where has the summer gone? So busy for so many as the Province continued to reopen, folks got out in the sun, new businesses emerged and we began to celebrate seeing one another in person. Our chamber offices reopened for the third time during this pandemic, after the long-weekend in July with two of our team in the office ready to greet our visitors. And it's been great to evolve to in-person events like Java Jolts, our Food Drive for Feed the Need, Lynde Creek Cleanup and Chamber on Tap! You all look lovely in person with those spiffy haircuts – wow!

I'm excited to greet our last quarter with an exuberance of what's to come. So many great emails and phone calls from our membership, thankful for our programming, communications, options to network for free, advocacy efforts and our collaborative efforts like #ShopLocal, FanSaves, The Landing Pad etc. Your support of our business community has been invaluable and to hear we're exceeding your expectations is exhilarating!

And don't forget to check out our events calendar for the many different options for growing your business.

Remember to #ShopLocal! Especially with the many holidays coming up and opportunities to celebrate with family & friends, it's easy to support local business.

- Natalie Prychitko, Chief Executive Officer, Whitby Chamber of Commerce

An interview with 2021 Jim Lavelle Award winner: Joel Davies

What does winning the Jim Lavelle Award mean to you?

It is a massive honour. I have a great deal of respect for the previous winners. Karey Anne Large, Heather Dunn and Keith Cowley are superstars in our community. I try to be there for the Chamber staff and Chamber members when called upon, so being recognized by the Whitby Chamber staff as one of the top volunteers is special for me. This is my proudest award to date. In my opinion, helping others is what we were put on this planet to do, and according to his peers, Jim Lavelle embodied that characteristic better than most.

When and how did you get involved in the Whitby Chamber of Commerce?

I became involved with the Whitby Chamber of Commerce when I visited my first Java Jolt in Brooklin and I became a member months later in 2017. Shout out to the Jolters on Wednesday.

What's your favourite Chamber memory?

When QJS Janitorial Cleaning Services won "Best Company" for the "16 - 49 Employees" category at the Peter Perry & Business Achievement Awards in 2019. They have been in Whitby for 30 years and deserved the recognition they got for all the outstanding work they do in Durham Region and throughout the world. I was very happy to see them win.

What talents do you possess that not a lot of people know of? Can you juggle?

I cannot technically juggle. I'm a metaphorical juggler. I also have a talent for utilizing survival skills while hiking long distances through tough wilderness terrain.

Tell me a little about younger Joel. What did you want to be when you grew up?

I distinctly remember wanting to be a defense lawyer. That dream fizzled after learning more about the profession. I also wanted to be a MLB player. There was never a chance, but I loved the game. I still do.

How did you end up in your current career?

I started at a company called contractors.com in 2004. It opened my eyes to the world of digital marketing. I found SEO, in particular, fascinating.

If you could travel anywhere in the world, where would you go and why?

Peru. I would do a 10 day Inca Trail hike to Machu Picchu. It is on the top of my bucket list. It has everything I want on a trip. Adventure, tranquility, historical education and beauty.

Last question, if you could have a superpower, what power would you choose?

Time control. I could fix a lot of problems with time control.

We also sat down with WCC Board of Directors President, Karey Anne Large - Jim Lavelle Award winner 2019.

How did it feel as our President and past Jim Lavelle winner to present this award to Joel?

Going to events and networking with people and just being out there in the community is always something I love and to see the interest and support the chamber has from someone like Joel is incredible. Joel sits on committees, volunteers at events and any time you need a helping hand he is there to help, no questions asked ! It was an absolute honour to present Joel with this award.

Were you surprised when you first won?

Shocked! There are so many people in our chamber membership and business community that are deserving. It is such an amazing honour. To this day, I have my certificate hanging proudly on my office wall.

Membership Committee Update

Full steam ahead at the Membership Committee. As businesses were allowed to reopen, the Membership Committee and Chamber staff were out in full force delivering Milestone Achievement certificates to worthy Chamber members. The continuous support of our members is what makes the Whitby Chamber an amazing organization.

Another positive economic sign was the numerous business Grand Openings also attended by the staff and committee members.

The Chamber will now be taking videos of all its major events. The purpose is to use them as visual marketing tools. They will be posted on the Chamber website highlighting the advantages of attending to both current and potential members. They are sure to create a buzz.

For those Members interested in upcoming events, please check out the Chamber calendar. It has a full list of each event, pricing, and detailed description of the event. To ease registration, the site provides a direct link to register.

Wishing you continued success.

Join a Committee! ConnXGEN, YEP and Advocacy

The Whitby Chamber of Commerce (WCC) is looking for dedicated members of the community to join three different committees, two of which aid in the development of programming for young professionals. A WCC committee is for you if you have a keen interest in volunteerism and supporting the continued growth and success of the business community.

Advocacy:

Interested in advocating on behalf of our membership? If you're a policy professional with experience in the development and implementation of policy strategies and programs, add experience working to advance policy issues, join this committee! You will ideally have an ability to create and articulate a vision, develop and execute supportive strategies and plans for both the short and long-term development.

ConnXGEN:

To develop programming and events to retain and attract members under the age of 30 to the WCC, while inspiring and supporting the next generation of professionals in the Durham Region.

The committee is composed of post-secondary students and professionals in the Durham Region aged 30 and under. Committee members do not need to be active WCC members to join.

Young Entrepreneurs & Professionals (YEP):

To develop youthful and innovative programming, while inspiring and supporting the next generation of entrepreneurs to build successful businesses in the Durham Region.

The committee is composed of WCC members in good standing, aged 40 and under.

Interested or have any questions? Email info@whitbychamber.org and we'll get back to you with committee terms of reference and the opportunity to respond with an Expression of Interest.

Welcome to our Whitby Chamber of Commerce Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Resource Centre!

As a small to medium enterprise, it can be difficult to find information on how best to promote diversity, equity, and inclusion in your organization. We've taken the first step by curating this library of free resources, chosen specifically for a business audience. Resources are organized by topic, and each one can be used alone or alongside other resources. We welcome our membership feedback and resources you'd like to recommend. Thank you!

These resources were sourced in 2021 and at that time were in the public domain. A review will be done annually to update this listing, and our DEI Committee will continue to update content for the business community to leverage. If you represent a resource listed here and do not wish it to be used, please contact info@whitbychamber.org to have it removed. In addition, if you'd like to recommend a resource be added, please contact info@whitbychamber.org and our Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Committee will review your recommendation.

Chamber Champion Story

Out of all the experiences I've had in my life—there's nothing like connecting with other people. Making connections is something I have valued my whole life; whether it's through work or in my personal life, I've found people to create beautiful things with—events, networks and art.

Being a member of the Whitby Chamber of Commerce, and a Chamber Champion, means a lot to me for this very reason. Through the Chamber I have reaped the rewards of connecting deeply. I've met artists that are now connected to my gallery—the Station Gallery—through chamber events and had the pleasure of nominating colleagues, like my good friend Terry Johnston, for the esteemed Peter Perry Awards.

In 2018, I attended the Connect Women event where more than 200 women came together for a day of celebration. I ran into an old friend there, Jennifer Gaskell, and because of that positive energy we had the motivation to create and give back to the community via the launch of the Durham Women's Network.

It's no secret that all of the connections are powerful. In fact, networking and supporting your peers and local business owners is one of the most important things you can do today. It is for that reason that the Chamber Champions initiative is near and dear to my heart.

Diversity Equity & Inclusion Committee – A Year in Review

It's been just over a year since the murder of George Floyd – an unarmed black man who died at the hands of a police officer on May 25, 2020, in Minnesota. I think it's important to note this event because the graphic nature of the video captured by a teenaged girl triggered the global outrage, protest and passion that fueled many conversations and actions over the past year. It led to the creation of many Diversity, Equity & Inclusion (DEI) roles at major organizations, and pledges to support black-owned businesses. In fact, it led to the startup of the Whitby Chamber of Commerce Diversity Equity & Inclusion Committee and many others like it.

My hope is that we keep the same energy for years to come – the outrage at anti-black racism, the anger about the despicable state of race relations in the world, and the passion and commitment to do something about it.

Whitby Chamber of Commerce CEO, Natalie Prychitko, reached out to me and several other business and community leaders to see if we would be interested in being a part of a DEI committee. The idea being that the Chamber needed to better reflect the diverse nature of local business leaders, their employees and the community at large – providing useful resources to its membership in a fast-changing social environment.

I agreed to join the committee with the condition that it had to make a difference rather than simply check a box. Natalie agreed that we would absolutely be focused on action, and she has stayed true to her word. Now as Chair of the DEI committee, I too share in this responsibility.

Over the past year we've built a team of dedicated volunteer committee members who hail from a wide range of backgrounds, identities, work experiences and lived experiences. Our committee members have given many hours of their time to help build a solid DEI foundation for the Chamber for years to come.

The purpose of the committee is to be a catalyst in our business community, fostering and institutionalizing policies, practices and strategies to support and accelerate DEI goals within it. We've built a workplan that has articulated action items that support our efforts to better recognize, support, celebrate and amplify the voices of underrepresented groups in the Whitby business community.

Perhaps our biggest achievement to date has been the hosting of the Chamber's first-ever Black History Month event in February 2021 which attracted speakers and guests from across Canada. Due to the recommendation of the DEI committee and the inaugural event's success, the BHM event has been elevated to one of the Chamber's signature events which means greater exposure, attention and sponsorship opportunities.

While we believe this is a strong start, there's so much more to do. I want to thank Natalie for inviting me to be a part of the DEI committee and I'd like to thank our amazing group of volunteers for their time, knowledge and willingness to give of themselves. While I've shared my work and lived experiences as a part of this journey, I can honestly say I've gained so much more from the incredible team of smart, driven, fun and passionate people on our DEI committee.

I would encourage anyone to get involved however you can, whether you're at school, work or play – systemic racism, homophobia, inequity and lack of representation permeate all aspects of life. You can make a difference within your own sphere of influence.

Diversity is a gift that allows us to enrich our lives, and to learn about people and experiences that are different from our own. It's an important time to listen, particularly to people who haven't had a platform or voice in the past because of who they are or where they're from. Perhaps just as important is unlearning many of our ways of thinking, including the language we use, recognizing that many of the structures in place were borne out of systemic racism, sexism and homophobia. Unlearning isn't easy – it will take practice and it can feel overwhelming. But keep trying, keep listening, keep learning and keep growing.

Collaboration! COVID-19 Antigen Tests

For the last 10 weeks, the Whitby Chamber of Commerce in partnership with the Town of Whitby distributed COVID-19 antigen testing kits free to businesses. Together, we distributed 9,875 tests to the business community! Now that September is upon us, the Town of Whitby will be using their building for municipal programming, and as such, on August 31st we delivered 6,125 tests to the Clarington Board of Trade.

Any business can continue to order them from Clarington <https://www.cbct.ca/rapidscreening/>, and those that obtained their tests from us are still required to report on their results weekly through our reporting portal: <https://www.whitbychamber.org/covid-19-workplace-self-screening-program/>.

Thank you to the Town of Whitby for their support of this program, our team for developing the website for our businesses to order and report (and helping deliver the tests to Clarington!) and lastly the Clarington Board of Trade for leveraging our remaining tests for the betterment of our business community.

Advocacy Committee Update

The committee has had a busy summer preparing for the federal election and following up on key issues with different elected officials. Pandemic measures remain a priority for the committee as we continue to engage political leaders in discussions around the impact of COVID-19 measures on businesses and the efficacy of government supports.

Recent highlights of advocacy activities include:

Meeting with MPP Lorne Coe and the Ministry of Transportation in August to discuss the province's report on toll roads. This was a productive discussion and members of the committee came prepared with questions centered on the equity of tolling additional highways in only one region. The committee further questioned whether or not there were plans to toll roads in other communities and there was some discussion around this being a possibility. That being said, the province assured the freeze on the toll rates would remain and that they would continue to look at different options to increasing access to roadways.

Hosting the Whitby riding federal election debate in September. A sub-group within the advocacy committee assisted WCC staff in organizing a debate for federal MP candidates for the 2021 federal election. The sub-group consisted of Peter Garrett, Matthew Mackenzie, Matthew Thornton and John Baynham. Laura Wilson from Baker Tilly once again moderated the event. Questions focused on key issues around business supports, housing, pandemic policies, taxation and more. The event was recorded by Rogers TV and can be found online at the following here.

Candidates who participated included Ryan Turnbull (incumbent Liberal party candidate), Maleeha Shahid (Conservative Party of Canada), Brian Dias (New Democratic Party) and Johannes Kotilainen (Green Party of Canada).

The candidates were approved based on WCC policy, which states:

To be included in Chamber events and activities for federal and provincial elections, a candidate must be:

- An individual officially recognized by a political party as their candidate for an election.
- An individual belonging to a political party that has secured at least five per cent of the valid ballots cast in the most recent general election (not a by-election). The five per cent total can be confirmed through Elections Ontario or Elections Canada.
- An individual belonging to a political party that has secured a seat in either the House of Commons or the Ontario Legislature

The full policy can be found here.

Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Committee Update

"Just don't give up trying to do what you really want to do. Where there is love and inspiration, I don't think you can go wrong." Ella Fitzgerald.

With the hearts of the Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI) committee members in the right place, we continued with dedication to meet the objectives and principles that underpinned the committee's formation. I enjoyed every meeting with my fellow members. Each meeting is always lively with unabridged opinions and sincerity, leaving me all pumped up for the rest of the day.

Paul Pirri spoke at one of our meetings. He presented the Elevate Talent Initiative, which is a Black, Indigenous, People of Colour (BIPOC) Economic Development program that offers 50 – 75 training opportunities. The courses are delivered through a 90-day workforce development program with various partners involved, including Ontario Tech University. Stay tuned for updates, Whitby!

Speaking about partners, incidentally, the DEI resource library is completed thanks to students from Trent University. It is our intent that the DEI resource library is curated from publicly available resources that amplify the voices of the communities relating to the subject. This resource library will continue to evolve as we welcome input from our members.

Also, I am happy to report that the membership census is completed. This census will assist WCC to plan for content and event that better reflect the make-up of its members and also the community of Whitby. In relation to that, WCC Rylie Wilton did an outstanding job harmonizing WCC community calendar with various DEI events. Do check out the calendar to know what event is around the corner.

There is so much work to be done, a lot more stones to turn. Rest assured, the DEI committee members and I will carry on checking all the boxes we set out to do. Please do reach out to WCC if you would like to contribute ideas or have questions.

- Ana Rejab, Business Development Manager, CIBC Business Banking and member of the DEI Committee

WCC's Continued Advocacy Efforts

When various business organizations and levels of government began considering the concept of a vaccine passport, our members, community organizations and media reached out to the Whitby Chamber of Commerce (WCC) requesting our point of view. Instead of making assumptions, we agreed the best approach was to poll our members. With both the Ajax-Pickering Board of Trade and Greater Oshawa Chamber of Commerce doing the same, our plan was to ask the same questions and aggregate the data to get a solid number of responses to represent your collective point of view.

Sent to the individual listed as the main contact for each of our members, the WCC provided context (an overview of the federal vaccine passport concept and an alternative, but similar concept developed by the Toronto Board of Trade) and then asked 4 simple questions. Thank you to all those that took a moment to guide our advocacy efforts! We are finding polls versus lengthy surveys to be very helpful to get a quick pulse from our membership.

Since having sent the poll, many public announcements have been made regarding mandatory vaccinations or proof of a negative COVID test, from MLSE, LIVEnation, post-secondary schools and I would imagine these announcements will continue, including the Provincial government confirming on August 17th that certain business categories are mandated to create policies for vaccination and testing. The issue will remain polarizing, but the Chamber will do its best to represent the membership. We haven't yet made any specific decisions for our events, but since March 2020 implemented precautions to ensure throughout this time in-person events, celebrations, grand openings, milestone celebrations and office operations keep our team and guests as safe as possible. Throughout this time, we've been open, active and will continue to do our best to ensure our programming and advocacy efforts support you.

We'll continue to monitor and thank you again for reading the materials provided and responding so thoughtfully, and in the best interests of our community.

- Natalie Prychitko, CEO, Whitby Chamber of Commerce

FLASHBACK

Whitby Chamber of Commerce - past, present and future 70 years as Whitby's voice of business

In the summer of 1928, steps were taken to reactivate the dormant Board of Trade, which had not met for four years and was in danger of losing its charter. The Board of Trade had represented Whitby's business community since 1898 and was closely associated with Town Council. On June 23, 1928, 20 businessmen met in the Town Clerk's office and elected the following officers:
President.....R.A. Hutchinson (public school inspector)
Vice President.....Theodore King (part owner of King Brothers Tannery)
Secretary.....James H. Ormiston (reporter for Whitby newspaper)
Treasurer.....John R. Frost (Town Clerk/Treasurer)

Shortly after the executive was formed, Dr. George H. Stevenson, Superintendent of the Ontario Hospital (now Whitby Hospital) and Rev. Dr. C.R. Carscallen, Principal of Ontario Ladies College (Now Trafalgar Castle School) were asked to join.

These men represented the largest employers in Whitby at that time. The inaugural meeting of the revived Board of Trade was held in the Town Hall (where the firehall now stands at Brock and Colbourne Streets) on July 20, 1928. Guest speakers were George W. McLaughlin, President of the newly formed Oshawa Chamber of Commerce, and the Oshawa Chamber's Secretary, Leon Fraser. In his speech, McLaughlin outlined the aims and objectives of a Chamber of Commerce and pointed out that, unlike a Board of Trade, (which was at that time a part of the municipal government) a Chamber of Commerce was an independent body.

On August 13, 1928, following up on McLaughlin's comments, the Whitby Board of Trade applied to the federal government for a charter as the Whitby Chamber of Commerce.

Except for a three year period during the Second World War, the Whitby Chamber of Commerce has been an integral part of the community for the past 70 years.

In its early years, the Chamber urged the town to develop the harbour at Port Whitby, which had not been used for 30 years, and succeeded in bringing a small dredging company to town. The federal government said that it would improve the harbour if the Town and Chamber could bring in enough industry to warrant the cost of new docking facilities. Throughout the 1930's it was almost impossible to attract industry because of the Great Depression.

Business picked up during the Second World War, but there was so much time required to support the war effort that the Chamber ceased to operate by the end of 1942.

In the Spring of 1945, with the war in Europe over, the Chamber was revived by William Davidson, who served several terms as President, was Mayor of the Town from 1947-1949 and was one of the Chamber's best supporters. In order to attract industry, the Chamber made an arrangement with the Toronto Board of Trade in which the Chamber would pay a fee back to the Board for any industries sent to Whitby. Although the Chamber managed to attract a number of small industries in 1946 and 1947, the big break came in 1947 when Dunlop Canada announced it would move from Toronto to Whitby.

The deal was re-negotiated in 1953 and Dunlop opened in Whitby in 1955 with 250 employees. The arrangement cost the Whitby Chamber of Commerce $2,500, but the benefits were uncountable.

Dunlop sponsored the Whitby Dunlop's Hockey team which won the World Hockey Championship against the Russian team in 1958, bringing international fame to our town.

The Whitby Chamber of Commerce arranged the town's Centennial celebrations in 1955 which led to a long standing tradition - the presentation of the Peter Perry Award to Whitby's outstanding citizen of the year.

Return Ready: How the World of Work May Change Forever

The global pandemic undeniably altered the way we do business and created a need for innovation. Businesses that relied on in-person customer interactions creatively reinvented themselves, while those who relied on the traditional workplace adjusted to a drastically different way of work.

To help navigate post pandemic life, this article provides a look at how businesses, big and small, can reinvent themselves and embrace change to stay successful.

Emphasize Health and Safety

To maintain healthy indoor environments, concentrate on germ reducing procedures and policies such as contactless amenities and self-cleaning solutions. Some solutions that we think will be key in the future office include:

- Pre-Entry Wellness Checks
- Air Filtration

- Bathrooms
- Social Distancing

Reconfiguring Office Spaces

While we don't know what "normal" will be going forward, the opportunity ahead of us is to make the office even better than it was before the crisis. From our experience, the future of the workplace will lie in solutions like:

- Flexible Desk Spaces
- Plexiglass Barriers
- Video Chat Rooms

Here to Support You

Regardless of what it looks like, we know that the workplace of tomorrow is going to involve a more distributed workforce.

MP Candidates Business Forum Update

For decades the advocacy committee has advocated on behalf of the members of the chamber of commerce. Part of those efforts is to host a forum for the committee to ask questions of the federal political candidates vying for office which is broadcast to the entire community on zoom and local tv. To make this happen the Advocacy Committee created a sub-group to develop questions for the candidates around how they will build back the economy after the pandemic, federal debt and the deficit, taxes for businesses, trade, the labor market, housing, local issues and more! The committee then set up lights, microphones, moderators time keepers and invited Rogers TV to ensure our community would be able to get to know what our local candidates will be fighting for in office. When everything was in place we reached out to all political parties that met the Election Campaign Protocol to speak at the event.

Candidates who participated included Ryan Turnbull (incumbent Liberal party candidate), Maleeha Shahid (Conservative Party of Canada), Brian Dias (New Democratic Party) and Johannes Kotilainen (Green Party of Canada).

The candidates were approved based on WCC policy, which states:

To be included in Chamber events and activities for federal and provincial elections, a candidate must be:

An individual officially recognized by a political party as their candidate for an election.

An individual belonging to a political party that has secured at least five per cent of the valid ballots cast in the most recent general election (not a by-election). The five per cent total can be confirmed through Elections Ontario or Elections Canada. An individual belonging to a political party that has

We would like to thank the members of the committee as well as WCC staff for putting the time and effort to ensure the event ran smoothly. A big shout out goes to Laura Wilson from Baker Tilly for expertly moderating the event. Click here to watch a recording from Rogers TV.
